

Daniel Hoff, Vice President of Government Affairs
Transportation Intermediaries Association

Daniel Hoff is a seasoned leader in government affairs and public policy with a proven track record of driving strategic advocacy and policy initiatives at both the federal and state levels. He currently serves as the Vice President of Government Affairs at the Transportation Intermediaries Association (TIA), where he oversees the association's government affairs program.

Prior to joining TIA, Daniel was the Director of Government Affairs for a market leader in drone technology, where he led advocacy efforts across North America. He also served as the Federal Government Affairs Program Manager at the Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority, where he played a key role in securing hundreds of millions of dollars in funding and successfully defeated significant legislative threats to the operation of Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport.

Daniel's expertise spans coalition-building, grassroots development, legislative strategy, and high-level stakeholder engagement. At the American Bus Association and its foundation, he spearheaded successful lobbying efforts that secured industry funding and resulted in transportation planning changes. As Executive Director of the American Bus Association Foundation, he increased the foundation's endowment by 600% through expanded outreach and strategic fundraising initiatives.

Daniel resides in Alexandria, Virginia with his wife and daughter. He earned a B.S. in Information Technology and Political Science from Syracuse University.
